TODAY'S ISSUE.

An examination of the columns of today's issue will be convincing proof of the high esteem in which The Herald is held by the business interests of Columbia as an advertising medium. Small wonder that this is the case, because the advertisers appreciate the value of advertising in a newspaper that is read. They realize that the newspaper that is a factor in the lives of the people, that is to a great majority of them an institution of the county, its perusal a part of their daily lives, is going to be the advertising medium par excellence.

There is good news in the advertisements displayed in the issue today. They will mean a good deal to the economical housewife. Not all of the value of a daily paper is in its editorial or news columns. Oftentimes as our readers constantly testify, the advertising columns prove to them the greatest value. Do not throw today's paper away until the interesting news contained in the advertising columns has been read.

MAURY COUNTY SOLDIERS.

Maury county would not be Maury county if it were not represented by soldiers at the front. It has always played a conspicuous part in the wars of the nation from that of 1812 down to the present time. The chief United States officer in the state now is a Maury countian. One of the admirals of the navy is a Maury countian. In the Spanish-American war this county had a splendid company at the front and one of its sons was a major of the First Tennessee regiment. It is gratifying to know that so many of its splendid young men are going to the front at this crisis in the country's history to answer its call.

They will not regret their response to the call of their country. They will not find that glamor and glory that so many think doth hedge war about, but they will find opportunity to do real service for their country. By reason of this service they will make better citizens. The good soldier, the youth who in the camp and in battlefield conducts himself as a manly man, shirks no duty, avoids no issue, lives clean and honorably is sure in after years to make a good and useful citizen.

The young men who have proffered their services to their country from Maury county are worthy descendants of their noble sires, who in so many wars and upon almost innumerable battlefields added to the eternal glory and fame of Maury county. They will acquit themselves well should the test of battle be their fate. But even if there is no actual war they will have the opportunity in the dull routine of the campaign to show the metal of which they are made. That is really a severer test in some particulars than they will find amid the shock of battle. The Herald is sure that wherever fate may carry them, whatever their portion in the war may be, the soldiers from old Maury will render a good account of themselves and place another halo upon the brow of the glorious "Dimple."

THE JOINT COMMITTEE.

Probably the people will not appreciate it, but if they knew the value of the services rendered by the members of the joint investigating committee and the sacrifices that those members have made for the public interest, they would assuredly feel like giving them a unanimous vote of thanks. The members of this committee are all busy men; they are men of affairs, with lots of work to do. They are not filled with political ambition, they have something else to do besides stirring up strife, unlike the malcontents they have little taste for a row simply for a row's sake and for the love of the limelight with the hope that some sort of political preferment may be their portion as the result. They are plain business men serving because they feel that it is their duty to serve upon the committee to which they have been appointed. Not a dollar will go to a single one of them as the result of this neglect of their private affairs for the public good.

In spite of almost daily insinuations of bad faith, of constant friction when in session, the members of the committee have preserved a wonderful poise and shown an exceptional degree of patience. There has not been a pleasant task; efforts have seemingly been made to make it as disagreeable as possible, but through it all the members have shown their high sense of duty and made it plain that their one object is to get the substantial facts which are being sought. It is true that at times they have shown small sympathy for mere shallow technical objections, so dear to the heart of the lawyers who love the shell rather than the great substance of the profession, but they have realized that the committee is not a court to be hedged about by all sorts of technical rules. They have wanted facts, and nothing but facts. They have no interest in the result of any charge that has been made. All they care for is the facts. They are not going to permit for ulterior motives any injustice to anyone. They deserve the thanks of the people.

AMAZON BRIGADE
MEXICAN WOMANPLANS ALSO MADE FOR MEDICAL CORPS IN CASE OF WAR.

MEXICO CITY, July 5.—A call was sent out Tuesday by the federal board of health for a meeting of the medical men for the purpose of forming a corps to serve in the event of a foreign war. Volunteers under 50 years old are called for, and it is planned to form those who serve into three groups in accordance with their age and previous experience. The younger men are to serve in the emergency field hospitals, while the other men will serve in hospital headquarters and in towns.

Supplementing this call is one for women who are to receive emergency training for field service as nurses and the further preparation is made of establishing some medical factories to offset the danger of having supplies usually furnished from the outside cut off.

YOUNG MUST BEAR
NATION'S BURDEN.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The young men, the boys who have not had their share of years, are the ones who must bear the nation's burden in war. They have seen little of the world, and have, probably, reaped few of the rewards of life. At 18 or 21 or even 25 we have everything before us. We have the right to look forward to a long and happy life. Surely life never looks so bright and desirable as it does at 21! It is one of the cruelties and inconsistencies of war that it demands its sacrifices from among those who have the clearest right to life and the brightest promise of happiness and usefulness. Even among the young it picks and chooses. It rejects the physically imperfect and the mentally deficient. For its altar it accepts only the blood of the best.

Those who have known but little of life, those who may have no posterity of their own, must suffer for those whose work in life is more nearly done, and for the posterity of others. Surely in all the annals of humankind from cave man to ultra-civilization there is no figure to compare with the boy who goes to fight his nation's battles, and who gladly gives his all for a principle or an abstraction that others may reap the benefit of that which he seeks to perpetuate. Born earlier or later he might enjoy richly the good things of the earth; he is the victim of circumstances he cannot control or perhaps even understand. His altruism is perfect.

The older men are no less willing. They may go forth as commanders. But in the fighting ranks war will not accept them. It must have only those who are the physically best. To the elders it will vouchsafe the right of self-sacrifice.

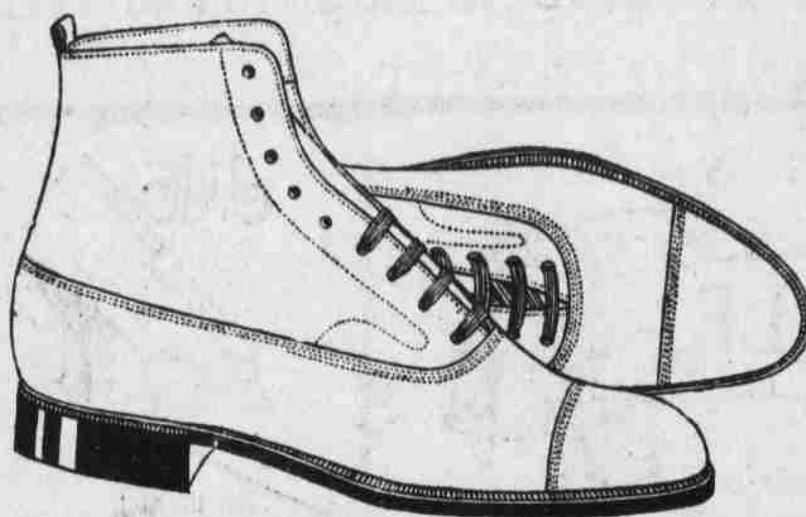

In Europe war is swallowing the boys month after month. America now sees only the first stage of the immolation, and prays that it may go on further. Every man of middle age or more mature years who sees the khaki companies setting forth for the uncertain chances of battle and the absolutely certain miseries of a Mexican midsummer may well render them homage even though his attainments in life are far greater than any which could be possible for their youthfulness.

NAME TEACHERS OF CITY SCHOOLS FOR THE COMING SESSION

Miss Eva Gilbert, Miss Lottie Wilkins, Miss Dovie Journey, first grade assistant; Miss Mary Lee Caskey, first grade assistant.

Negro School.

R. G. Johnson, principal; Sampson Brown, Marcellus Dobbins, Melinda Frierson, Eddie Johnson, Beatrice Gordon, Cora Tyler, Annie L. Gordon.

All accounts were allowed and ordered paid. The building committee for the annex at the city colored school asked for more time in which to receive bids. Judge Erwin and C. D. Adkisson were on that committee and they stated that there seemed to be some misunderstanding upon the part of the carpenters of the town about the use of the material that is being gotten from the old Athenaeum building, and for this reason they wanted further time, which was readily granted.

Prof. Harris also had something to say about the building of the annex, and it seems to be the opinion of some of the board that it can be built cheaper by day labor, with a good foreman over the crew, and especially did this seem to be so, since most of the contractors did not want to allow anything reasonable for the material from the Athenaeum that was to be used.

Prof. Harris also made a talk about the new teachers that had been elected to the faculty of the city schools, and especially was he high in the praise of Miss Mary Frierson, who has been elected a member of the faculty of the High school. Miss Frierson has been teaching for the past four years in Atlanta and comes to Columbia in order to be at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frierson.

Misses Dovie Journey and Mary Lee Caskey are graduates of the County High school at the recent term.

There having been no further business, the meeting adjourned.
